

A time of grand corruption?
How the rule-of-law crisis and pandemic are ruining public life.
9-10 December 2020

Krisztina Arató

Krisztina Arató is full professor and director at ELTE University, Faculty of Law, Institute of Political Science in Budapest. She studied history at ELTE University in Budapest and political science at the Victoria University of Manchester, England. She wrote her Ph.D dissertation on the social dialogue system of the EU at Corvinus University, Budapest. She is currently the president of the Hungarian Political Science Association. She is also a member of the board at Transparency International, Hungary. Her research interests are history and theory of European integration, and civil and social dialogue. She authored and edited textbooks about the European Union (The Voyage of Europe with Boglárka Koller, in Hungarian, the Political System of the European Union, co-edited with Boglárka Koller) and recently contributed to the volume The European Parliament Election of 2019 in East-Central Europe. Second-Order Euroscepticism, edited by Hloušek, Vit, Kaniok, Petr (Palgrave Macmillan, 2020) on the Hungarian case.

Aleksandra Karasińska

Journalist and manager working in legacy and digital media. She has 20 years of experience in polish and international media; Newsweek, Forbes Women, TVN24, Polsat, Radio Zet, RWE. She has been trained and cooperated with CNN International for over 2 years, and worked as a consultant in Ukrainian tv and online media. Teaches digital journalism on SWPS University of Social Science.

Grzegorz Makowski

Holds PhD in sociology, senior expert of ideaForum and former director of the Public Integrity Program at the Stefan Batory Foundation, assistant professor at the Warsaw School of Economics. Between 2003 and 2013 senior analyst and head of the Civil Society Program at the Institute of Public Affairs. For years engaged in many academic research and non-governmental advocacy projects related to anti-corruption policies, and civil society development. Since 2012 also involved in various research and advocacy activities focused on strengthening whistleblowers' protection in Poland and Europe. Initiator and co-author of the Polish citizens' bill on whistleblowers' protection (<http://www.sygnaLista.pl/projekt-ustawy/>). Cooperates closely with Transparency International on advocacy for the EU directive on whistleblowers. Author and editor of number of articles, research reports and books on civil society, good governance and corruption and whistleblowers, among others: "The Act on Whistleblower Protection – the need for and the prospects of its introduction in Poland"(Stefan Batory Foundation, 2016), "From Weber to the web... can ICT reduce bureaucratic corruption?" (Springer, 2017), "Law Regarding Civil Society in Poland (Cambridge Univ. Press, 2017); "Diffusion of corruption in Poland" (Ashgate, 2012).

Alina Mungiu-Pippidi

Alina Mungiu-Pippidi (Twitter: @MungiuPippidi) is Professor of Democracy Studies at the Hertie School in Berlin and Director of the European Research Centre for Anti-Corruption and State-Building - ERCAS (againstcorruption.eu). She is the author of A Quest for Good Governance. How Societies Build Control of Corruption (2015) and of Europe's Burden. Promoting Good Governance across Borders (2019), both with Cambridge University Press. Mungiu-Pippidi has consulted for the World Bank, UNDP, the International Monetary Fund, the European Parliament, the Swedish Government, and others. Her research projects have resulted in commons like integrity-index.org, europam.eu, and opentender.eu. She is also the President of the Romanian Academic Society - SAR and founder of the social media watchdog platform Clean Romania! (romaniacurata.ro).

David Ondráčka

David Ondráčka is a member of the Global Board of Directors of Transparency International, and was director of Czech chapter of Transparency International for the last 13 years. He is an international consultant on anti-corruption legislation, policy design and governance with 15 years of professional experience in the field of public investments and procurement reforms. He is on the board of the Association of Developers, the board of the Public Procurement Journal and served on the board of the Czech Cinematography Fund. David has a degree in politics and economics from the Central European University in Budapest and was a Fulbright Scholar at Columbia University in New York in 2013.

Nikos Passas

Nikos Passas is Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Northeastern University. His degrees are from the Universities of Athens, Paris-II and Edinburgh. He is also Distinguished Visiting Professor at Beijing Normal University; Distinguished Practitioner in Financial Integrity at Case Western Reserve Law School, Chair of the Academic Council of the Anti-Corruption Academy in India, and member of the Advisory Board of the Centre for Crime, Justice and Policing at the University of Birmingham. He is fluent in 6 languages and has more than 240 publications on corruption, good governance, illicit financial/trade flows, sanctions, informal fund transfers, remittances, terrorism, and financial regulation. His main current project, supported by the Natl Science Foundation, focuses on the detection and disruption of illicit and falsified medicinal products. He consults with law firms, financial institutions and various organizations, including the UN, EU, OECD, OSCE, IMF, the World Bank, research institutions and government agencies in all continents. He serves on the Board of Directors of Compliance and Capacity Skills International in New York, the Advisory Board of the Global Risk Profile in Geneva, the International Panel of Advisors at the Institute for Australia India Engagement in Brisbane and as Co-Chair of the Steering Committee of the University of Geneva Anti-Corruption Academy (GENACA).

Ionuț Sibian

Ionuț Sibian is the executive director of the Civil Society Development Foundation (FDSC), one of the most influential NGOs in Romania. After Romania's accession to the European Union in 2007, Ionuț Sibian was elected to represent the Romanian NGOs in the European Economic and Social Committee (EESC). His previous experience includes: President of the Romanian Federation of Development NGOs (FOND), Board member of the German Marshall Fund programme - Black Sea Trust and member of various Boards of Romanian and European organisations. Currently, he serves as a member of the Orange

Foundation Board.

Marcin Walecki

Dr Marcin Walecki has since October 2020 been a new Director of EUROPAEUM, an association of Europe's leading universities founded in 1992 by Oxford University. A Polish national, he has over 25 years of democracy support and governance experience working in more than 50 countries around the world. Before joining EUROPAEUM he was a Head of Democratization Department of the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights OSCE/ODIHR (www.osce.org/odihhr), one of the world's principal regional human rights bodies. He was also the first Executive Director of the European Partnership for Democracy (www.epd.eu), a not-for-profit organisation with a global remit to support democracy, that brings together a network of leading European organisations specialising in the different parts of a democratic system. From 2004 to 2009 he was a Senior Adviser for Political Finance for IFES (www.ifes.org), responsible for designing and implementing programs to combat political corruption, securing electoral integrity, and regulating political finance. Marcin holds degrees from the Department of Law and Administration at the University of Warsaw (MA in Law Hons, Class I) and Oxford University (DPhil from St Antony's College). He is a former Max Weber Fellow at the European University Institute in Florence and a Senior Associate Member of St. Antony's College. As an academic, he has a strong interest in democratic governance, rule of law, political parties, elections, and political corruption.

Janine R. Wedel

Dr Janine R. Wedel Janine R. Wedel (Twitter a@janinewedel), is an award-winning author, social anthropologist, and University Professor in the Schar School of Policy and Government at George Mason University (also Fellow at the Hertie School of Governance in Berlin). She writes about corruption, governance, elites, and informal networks and for nearly four decades has conducted field research on both sides of the Atlantic, focusing on Central and Eastern Europe and the United States.

Her most recent book, Unaccountable: How the Establishment Corrupted Our Finances, Freedom, and Politics and Created an Outsider Class (paperback & kindle editions 2016), was named in Bloomberg's survey of 2014 favorite reads. Other prizewinning books include Shadow Elite: How the World's New Power Brokers Undermine Democracy, Government, and the Free Market (2009); and Collision and Collusion: The Strange Case of Western Aid to Eastern Europe (2001).

A public intellectual, she has contributed analysis pieces to more than a dozen major outlets, including the Financial Times, New York Times, Washington Post, USA Today, and the Wall Street Journal Europe, and her work has been reviewed or translated into more than a dozen languages. A five-time Fulbright fellow, she has also won the Grawemeyer Award for Ideas Improving World Order, as well as major awards from the National Science Foundation,

MacArthur Foundation, and Institute for New Economic Thinking, among many others. Wedel is co-founder and past president of the Association for the Anthropology of Policy (ASAP), a section of the American Anthropological Association.